A small space for attention

This reading machine explores the feeling of interacting with a page.

Drag across these words to stretch a soft blue highlight.

Select more than one line to see the highlight follow the text layout.

Try the ticket ruler from the toolbar, then click a row of text.

The paper pulls to the left while the roller stays at the edge.

Click elsewhere to release the selection and let the ruler return.

The red buttons compress in depth when you press them.

The blue cursor leaves a finger dent, then softly recovers.

Open Tune to adjust opacity, spring response and letter depth.

This is a local prototype: your reading files stay on your computer.
